Loving Others, Helping Others...It's What We Do

Our Church, along with seven other Church's in our community, provides the help that is needed to support "Meals-on- Wheels". If you are able to help us, and would like to volunteer in the future with this service, please contact Ken Bryant.

Our next week for Meals-On-Wheels will be March 2-6.

"For food in a world where many walk in hunger; for faith in a world where many walk in fear; for friends in a world where many walk alone."

The face of hunger is often surprising. About half the time, it is the face of a child or, increasingly, a senior. At FCC, we provide food to our Local Food Bank so that they can distribute to those in need. If you have given before, or still give...thank you! If you have never given, but would like to start contributing...we make it easy! There is a "food box" inside our East Entrance doors. Simply bring in your non-perishable food items in and we will deliver them to the Food Bank. Thank you for your giving hearts...your helping hands.

The FCC Outreach Committee hopes to help those in our community who use the Hoot Resource Center (HRC) by providing one evening meal per month in 2020. FCC has chosen the first Monday of each month to provide a hot meal for 15-20 people. We need 12 individuals, families, or organizations to pick one month and contact Lindsey Winning Par-ton at 815-4606, Ginger McGraw at 660-620-2480, or the FCC Office at 886-3338 to sign up or to request more information. For more information on the Hoot Resource Center and other ways you could help you may contact the HRC at 886-7414 ext. 20001, or contact Lindsey. Thank you for all you do to help our community!

“ I’ll Take “Little Things” for $500 Alex...

Over the past years, several members of our congregation have left us here on earth to join their Lord in heaven. As some of you may remember, I lost a cousin when I first started working here- she had been murdered. That pain was difficult to endure, and I thought there could be no worse feeling. But then I thought about a child losing a parent, or a spouse losing their life partner. I can not even imagine the pain a daughter must feel when she lays her mother to rest, or when a husband holds his wife’s hand one last time. And a parent who must bury their child? I can’t comprehend how painful that must be.

Attending a funeral a few months ago, I sat on the back pew and tried to hold back a host of emotions as people came forward to talk about their memories of their loved one. As I sat there, I began to realize something that I had never considered before. Each story was filled with the simplest of acts- frying chicken, sleep-overs, and eating popcorn. Yet, each memory made such an impression that it hit me...it really IS the small stuff that matters. All this time I have worried about vacations, Christmas and birthday gifts, the car at graduation, and shopping trips; things I hoped would make my loved ones remember me with love and passion when my turn has come to pass. In reality, what touches someone’s heart are the little things that make us special to them.

Now don’t get me wrong, I still plan on going on trips, and having special gifts and parties that make them happy and surprised. But, maybe I need to take more time to just listen, talk, and laugh with those I love. I need to quit rushing from one commitment to another and let THEM be the commitment I focus on most. When I die, as we all do, I hope someone talks about me the way the granddaughter talked about her grandmother. If I can continue to love as God has commanded us to do, then surely I can leave this world with a few kind things said about me!

I hope I can be remembered as someone who loved life, loved God, and loved her family. And I may not be able to “cook chicken” like the one granddaughter remembered about her grandmother, but I CAN make a mean Peach Pie!

So sure, do the big things. Take trips, buy elaborate gifts, spend money on shiny treasures that fit nicely on a finger. But those things won’t be what is remembered about you. The smile you flash at someone when they are feeling a little down. The hug you give when someone feels alone. The person you hold the door for when their hands are full. Those are the moments we never forget. Simply put...the little things truly ARE the big things.

Learning & Leaning,

Hope Miller

Song of Solomon 2:11-12

*For behold, the winter is past;
the rain is over and gone.
The flowers appear on the earth,
the time of singing has come,
and the voice of the turtledove
is heard in our land.*
